

Generic Competence EDA: Presentation

One of the abilities that are required to a student and to a professional is the knowledge of how to conduct a search of the existing literature on a topic related to the studies or the profession and use the results effectively.

The material that is relevant to carry out this task includes books, journal articles (in paper or in electronic format), web pages, or materials in other media. To access this wide range of materials one needs a basic knowledge of the workings of the library systems and the online search tools.

To help you and guide you to learn this, the Biblioteca Rector Gabriel Ferraté (BRGF) provides you with the attached didactic materials on how to start the search, the available sources, how to evaluate them, and how to document (or cite) them correctly.